There are our dintealccc If you are familiar with macros in Excel or would like to learn how to use a macro, this option is fast and requires little manual input once configured. Step 1 Open a new Excel document – this will be your master bank statement document. In the Excel document, click the View tab and select Macros. Type GetSheets in the macro name box , click Create and copy the VBA code from the 3rd step of the ExtendOffice tutorial to the module box that appears. If you're working with CSV files, update line 3 to:Filename = Dir (Path & aA Y* .csvA Y). Step 2 Make sure you have updated the path in the macro to point to where your converted XLS files are saved in Windows Explorer. Leave the VBA page. Click Macros again, and then run the macro you just created. Your bank statements will now all be in an Excel master document on several spreadsheets. This will now be saved to use again when you convert more PDF bank statements. If you prefer to merge your documents manually, open each converted XLS document and choose one that will be your master document (or open a new Excel document). Step 1 In each Excel document, copy the data from the spreadsheet that contains your bank statement and paste it into a new spreadsheet from the Excel master document. Step 2 Save the master document and now you have merged all your bank statements into one document. You're done! You have successfully converted a PDF bank statement to Excel and merged several into one document. Looking for more automation? Automate this PDF to Excel conversion with our PDF to Excel API.
